

REPORTED · FINANCIAL TIMES, OCT 5, 2026 · BLOOMBERG,
OCT 2, 2026

Banks lend $60B so Anthropic can rent chips.

Banks began selling a reported $60B of loans on Oct 5 for AI chips Anthropic will rent, supplied by Broadcom.

So what happens if Anthropic stops paying?

Hock Tan

President and CEO, Broadcom

Photo: Greg Bezat / Broadcom, via Wikimedia Commons, CC BY-SA 4.0, cropped · Sources: Bloomberg, Oct 2, 2026 · Financial Times, Oct 5, 2026

@chriscorkins

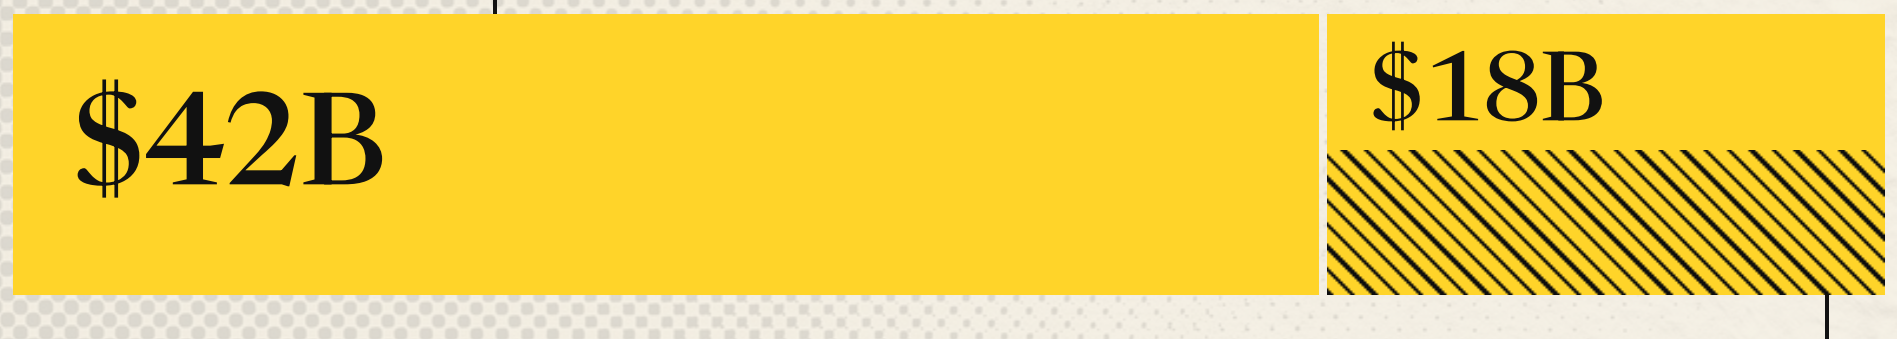

VentureFox

SOURCES: BLOOMBERG OCT 2, 2026 · FINANCIAL TIMES
OCT 5, 2026 · S&P GLOBAL RATINGS JAN 6, 2026

Broadcom may cover part if Anthropic misses rent.

On $42B of the loans, Broadcom reportedly provides support tied to what the chips resell for, per Bloomberg.

Reported Broadcom support, and S&P rates Broadcom A-

No Broadcom support. Blackstone reportedly committed about $9B (striped), and the rest is planned for sale.

Reported structure, not announced, and Broadcom and the banks declined comment.

And who carries the other $18B?

@chriscorkins

The other $18B gets no Broadcom support.

Jon Gray

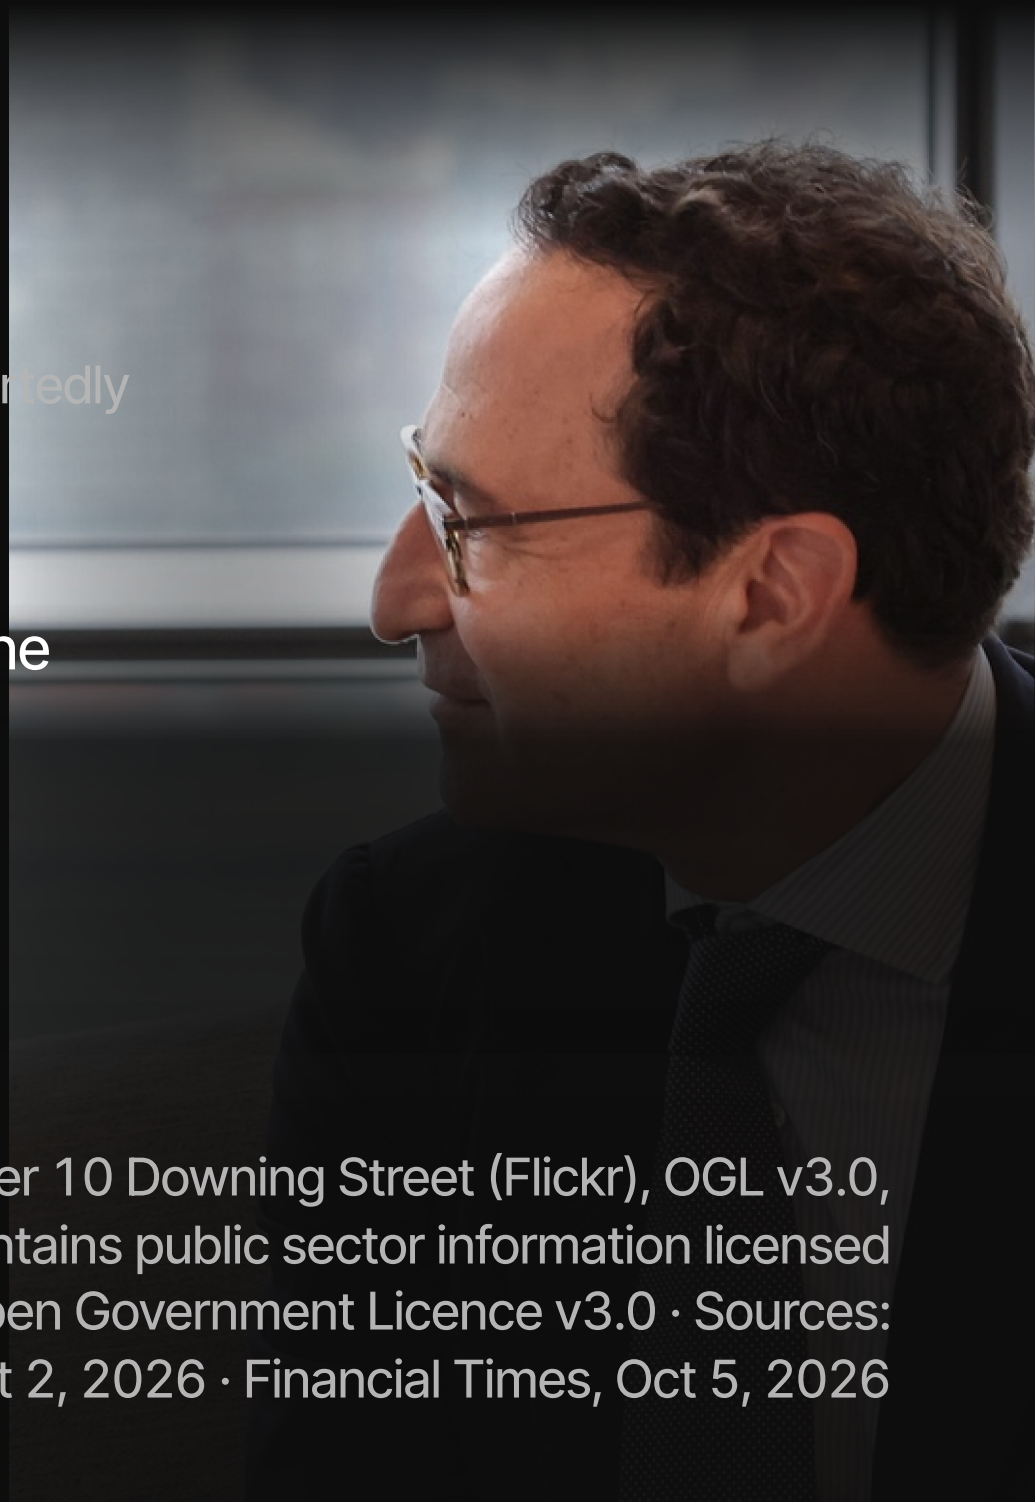

President and COO, Blackstone, which reportedly leads the $18B

Lenders on the $18B take Anthropic's risk directly, per the FT, with Blackstone reportedly committing about $9B.

What else does Broadcom do in this deal?

@chriscorkins

Photo: Number 10 Downing Street (Flickr), OGL v3.0, cropped. Contains public sector information licensed under the Open Government Licence v3.0 · Sources: Bloomberg, Oct 2, 2026 · Financial Times, Oct 5, 2026

ANTHROPIC'S FILING, PER REUTERS, FLAGS A POTENTIAL CONFLICT OF INTEREST

Broadcom holds four roles in Anthropic's chip financing.

The fourth role sits outside the loans, since Anthropic may if needed give Broadcom up to $42B of IOUs.

Sells the chips	custom AI chips, per its 10-Q, Sep 10, 2026
Set up the leasing platform	the first $35B of leases, Jun 9, 2026, with Apollo and Blackstone
Reportedly supports the $42B	tied to resale value, per Bloomberg, Oct 2, 2026
May take Anthropic IOUs	up to $42B, only for lease obligations, none issued as of Aug 2, 2026

What do June's published terms say?

@chriscorkins

Sources: Broadcom Form 10-Q, Sep 10, 2026 (its customer identified as Anthropic by Reuters, Oct 1, 2026) · Apollo, Jun 9, 2026 · Bloomberg, Oct 2, 2026

THE OCTOBER DEAL IS UNANNOUNCED, PER BLOOMBERG ·
JUNE PLATFORM TERMS, BROADCOM QUARTERLY FILING,
SEP 10, 2026

In connection with this arrangement, we entered into a backstop agreement with the financial partner for the customer's lease obligations over the 5-year lease terms (the "Backstop"). The total Backstop amount increases as the AI racks are delivered and deployed and decreases as the customer makes payments on its lease obligations. In the event of a lease default by the customer, our Backstop liability will be equal to any difference between 85% of the outstanding amounts owed on the lease Backstop and the value of the AI racks received upon sale of the assets at that time. Remedies to limit our total liability exposure in a lease default include the assumption of the applicable lease, reselling the AI racks back to the seller at a fixed price under certain conditions or arranging a sale of the applicable AI racks.

Broadcom Form 10-Q, Note 10, as filed. Capture, not a quote.

In June's deal, Broadcom covers shortfalls below 85%.

If a June platform lease defaults, Broadcom pays the gap between 85 percent of amounts owed and resale value.

These are June's terms, from Broadcom's 10-Q.
October's terms are not public.

So when does Anthropic start paying rent?

Sources: Broadcom Form 10-Q, filed Sep 10, 2026 ·

@chriscorkins

Apollo, Jun 9, 2026

Rent starts after the 2027 chips are deployed.

Anthropic expects the capacity online from 2027, and per the FT rent starts only after full deployment.

WHAT TO WATCH

1. Anthropic's revenue when the first rent comes due.
2. Chip resale value if Anthropic stops paying.

Whose credit are the lenders relying on?

VENTURE FOX'S READ

The $42B depends on Broadcom's credit rating.

Per the FT, the $42B is backed by Broadcom's A- rating from S&P.

Questions to investigate, not advice. Every number carries its source. Follow Venture Fox for the next one.

Sources: Financial Times, Oct 5, 2026 · S&P Global Ratings, Jan 6, 2026 · VENTURE FOX / venturefox.io